SREL2M - Introduction

Introduction

Introduction

Whether you are religious or agnostic, you are interested in religions and the critical approach to them offered by the human sciences. Thanks to integrated courses and seminars, our programme prepares you for multidisciplinary tasks, particularly in the field of intercultural mediation and multi-religious intervention.

Your profile

You

- Wonder about the impact of religions and religiosities in our contemporary societies?
- Would you like to gain a better understanding of the forces behind religion?
- Would you like to tackle the complexity of these issues in a calm and dialogical way
- Want to think, contribute and act in this field

Your future job

- Researcher
- Journalist
- Teachers, facilitators, or more specifically, consultants in intercultural and religious mediation within companies, schools, or the youth sector.

Your programme

The Master's offers you:

- An introduction to four religious traditions (religions of the Far East, Hinduism and Buddhism, Islam, Judaism and Christianity);
- An introduction to the methods of each of the major disciplines in the human sciences (philosophy, history, law, sociology, psychology, theology, comparatism);
- A focus on religious issues in the context of highly contemporary problems;
- An opening and guidelines for developing skills in intercultural and interreligious dialogue.

SREL2M - Teaching profile

Learning outcomes

The graduate in religious sciences prepares for the challenge posed by understanding and analysing complex problems linked to religious phenomena, in accordance with a multidisciplinary approach, in order to devise and contextualize innovative social interactions.

The individual programme of each student depends on her former curriculum and her optional choice as regards with religion thematics and/or disciplinary approaches; A large number of varied optional courses is offered to meet the interests of each student. The Master programme requires completing a minimum of 120 credits distributed over two years, corresponding to 60 credits each one.
